

Navya Aggarwal is a Ph.D. scholar of Biotechnology under the guidance of Dr. Banashree Bondhopadhyay, from Amity University, Noida, India. She has completed her Bachelor's in Technology in Biotechnology from the same. She is one of the pioneer students admitted for Ph.D. directly after bachelors in the institution. She has been an exchange student to London and New York during her under-graduation. She has several book chapters, presented in reputed conferences and is forging her way in biosciences. She is passionate about her research in breast cancer. Her research interests lie in computational modelling, drug discovery and in-silico research in breast cancer.